Dear Dr. Richardson:

This is to confirm, in general, the arrangements discussed between us in June, and outlined in your letter of June 23, 1981, regarding a visit by a group of 60-75 college presidents to the CIA on September 24, 1981. The speaker will be [redacted] who is particularly well qualified from his varied career in intelligence, combined with his experience in the teaching profession and a brief stint as a staff member of a Congressional Intelligence Oversight committee, to address the audience on the topic of "The Role of Intelligence Activities in National Security." I suggest that we eliminate the short film mentioned in our earlier discussion in order to give the audience more time to ask questions and engage in an exchange of views with [redacted]. The information contained in the film will be covered thoroughly in the remarks by the speaker.

In preparation for your visit, we shall need at your earliest convenience the names and Social Security numbers of all visitors. As I mentioned in June, we can only accept US citizens as visitors on the Agency grounds,

We shall alert our guards at the gate on Route 123 to expect your group to arrive about 3 pm. Please come to the Auditorium (to the right of the main entrance as you approach the building) where I shall plan on meeting you and conducting you to the briefing. Parking facilities will be designated at the time of your arrival at the Auditorium.

I shall be looking forward to meeting you and your group on the 24th and I am confident that [] can provide an informative and interesting briefing.

Dear

This is to confirm my understanding arising out of our recent conference with regard to the Global Issues Seminar the Council for the Advancement of Small Colleges in conducting for college presidents this coming September. It our expectation that we will bring a group of 60-75 presidents to the CIA for a briefing beginning at 3:15 p.m. on Thursday, September 24, 1981, and concluding about 4:45 p.m. The session will consist of a short film which describes the general activities of the Agency followed by remarks on the topic of "The Role of Intelligence Activities in National Security." The probable speaker will be  Deputy Chief of The National Intelligence Council, who will bring formal remarks for 15-20 minutes and then engage participants in discussion.
